

Rachel

I chose her name to be 'Rachel' for this name means "innocent lamb". Connotations form a lamb, is wide-eyed and naivety. This lack of experience is used as a sacrifice. And in my film Rachel, like a lamb, is a sacrifice. Without her rape, then the audience wouldn't see the actual abuse these girls go through and how they are without sufficient protection.

Rachel was brought up in foster care, her current guardian neglects their duty of care and only cares about the money that comes with being a foster parent. They argue all the time, about lots of different things, but mainly about the foster parent's boyfriend. This man sexually harasses Rachel almost every day, makes sexual remarks about her and touches her inappropriately. From the lack of love in her home, growing up without the support and with abuse, this has affected her outlook on her life. She is a pessimist, she doesn't trust anyone. Therefore, her relationships are hollow and meaningless. Just casual sex with people that use her and she uses them. Her apathetic outlook paired with sexual abuse has negatively affected how she sees sex. She thinks that people want to use her and nothing more, but more importantly, she doesn't care. So, ever since she first moved into her latest foster home in a new town, she admired these 3 girls from afar. She, firstly, was intrigued by their beauty and the way they held themselves. But quickly realised all of their male attention and heard all the rumours about them. And how everyone judges them in the town, then she was hooked. She's wanted to be like them ever since.

Lexus

This name means is the combination of the words "luxury" and "elegance". Lex is very conscious of her appearance, not only because it is apart of her job, but is aware of how people see her, and the importance of making an impression. Also, the origin of the name means "defender of man". Lex is the protector of her girls as she feels she has to in this line of work.

Lexus is a carer, she wants nothing more than to protect the people she loves. Her upbringing was very detrimental to the way she lives her life. As a transgender woman growing up in a very Christian household, there wasn't any understanding or support for her. Her family just wanted to change her, to suppress her. And at first, she succumbed and hid who she really was for a while. But, being the strong-minded person she is, she left her family before they could throw her out. As she knew that if they truly loved her, they would at least try to accept her for who she is. She hasn't her family for years and doesn't plan to or like to speak on the matter. Her past is something that Lex keeps very close to her heart and is very secretive about the matter. She spent a couple of years of her life living on the streets, with nobody to rely on except for the teachings of other prostitutes. Means that these sex workers, almost brought her up in a sense, she now wants to show that gratitude by helping other girls in trouble. This is apart of the reason why she feels such a responsibility to look after her girls. The other reason why she wants to protect the girls is because Lexus has seen and experienced the horrors in the line of sex work firsthand. The other girls are younger and more naive to the abuse that takes place, they forget that prostitution is illegal. It is seen as a crime through the eyes of the law. Therefore, there is no protection for these girls in this line of work. Lex is so hyper aware of this and wants to open the eyes of these girls to the dangers they face.

Stella

Stella's mother is very spiritual, and Astrology is apart of one of her practices as a Pagan. When she was born, Stella as her mothers 'star' and named her apparently. Stella keeps her real name as a sex worker too as she wants nothing more than to be at one with the universe. Stella has her head in the clouds and sometimes further than that.

She grew up in a hippy commune, slightly culty. As she is a free spirit and wanted to experience all walks of life and to travel, living in this cult wasn't for her. The commune had a male leader, and her mother was one of his wives. What he does in this commune, is provide an abundance of drugs to the residents that live there, this makes everybody who lives there easy to control and rely on him for the drugs. Stella saw what this lifestyle was doing to her mother, the drug dependence and manipulation. So, she decided to get out of there, but the cult didn't like this and therefore left her with nothing. This was the only family Stella has ever known, due to her mother not knowing who Stella's dad was, and it abandoned her.

Living on the streets, selling herself to feed her drug addiction, this is where she meets Lexus. When they met, Lex gave her a place to stay and teaches her the safe ways to go into sex work. Stella as a sex worker wants to give people "spiritual experiences", including mostly group work. In doing one of these sessions she meets a married man. Stella doesn't believe in marriage or any other sort of monogamy. So in falling in love and wanting to be with only this one man, this kind of goes against all of her core beliefs. At this point in her life, Stella is torn. This married man she has fallen for is just as controlling as her mother's partner. He won't let Stella do her work as he gets very jealous, so he gives her money to live off as she isn't allowed to work, just to exercise another aspect of her life to control. She does not want to be like her mother, but this is where she is headed.

Babydoll

Baby's line of work involves the DDLG kink. This Daddy Dom / Little Girl. DDLG, or dd/lg, is a relationship in which one person is the caregiver or "daddy" and the other is childlike. It is NOT a relationship between an actual father and daughter or any minor. This is a type of BDSM relationship that may or may not involve sex, but often involves play with childlike things, such as stuffed animals, bedtime stories, and spankings. The lg part of the relationship is often called the "little." There are pet names that come from this kink such as...

Baby came from a broken home, she never knew her father as he left when she was very young and her mother tries to make up for the fact by being overbearing. Baby has always longed in her life for the answers to why her dad left and if there was anything she could've done to stop him from leaving. She went into sex work from a very early age, partly acting out on her sheltered childhood. And partly as she grew up the internet, she had access to talking to older, predatory men online. This lead to her being groomed by these men, leading to putting herself in vulnerable positions. Baby met Trix one night while she was working as a stripper and Baby was there on a date with one of her sugar daddies. She was only 15 and was getting roped into working with all these different men, friends of her date, that she didn't know. Lexus saw this and got her out of what could've been a dangerous situation. Lex couldn't stop Baby from working completely but taught her other ways of making money less dangerously. And now Baby is 18, we see her love what she does, she is still a sex worker, but now on her own terms. What Babydoll loves about her job is the sexual self-expression, she makes adult films as a cam girl and she finds this empowering. She also now cherishes the relationships she builds with her daddies as no abuse going on, only people who have a healthy outlook on sex. However, because Baby thrives off this validation she gets from others and has grown up with it most of her life, she doesn't know how to live without it and this is her biggest flaw that gets in her way. She places too much value on the opinions of others.
